

I have chose an excerpt from my classroom management plan as a piece of evidence for standard 5 of the TRB. Without classroom management skills it is hard to teach. Over the course of my practicums I have learnt that not all management tips will work for all classrooms and students, though with saying that I have also learnt that it is okay to try new things or combined management strategies together. I strongly believe that classroom management is something that changes and develops over time. Ultimately in order to successfully teach, the teacher has to be the one in control and have a clear vision of how they want their classroom to be. This includes having clear rules and expectations as well as being able to follow through with discipline. This is an area in which I would like to further grow and develop as I continue my teaching journey due to the fact that I recognize the importance of having strong classroom management.
