

I have decided to add my frame of reference as evidence of Standard 1 of the BC TRB standards. This frame of reference portrays how I see myself as a teacher. It also explains my beliefs and values which drives my decisions both personally and professionally as a teacher. Through my experiences the past year and a half, I have learnt that my personality and values influences the type of teacher I am determined and aim to be. I have a soft, warm, caring personality. As a teacher, I aim to care about all the students regardless if they are in my class or not. I see each student as an individual with individual needs. I aim to teach to each of the students needs. My goal is to be able to recognize all the learning styles and needs and successfully teach to them. With this in mind, I aim to make my lessons engaging, fun and adaptable to be successful for all the students. I feel that my frame of reference is an important piece of evidence because it gives my readers a bit of insight into my world through illustrating my beliefs, values and philosophy when it comes to education.
